The State College of Kentucky, LEXINGTON, KY.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State College) of Kentucky offers the following courses of study, viz: Agricultural, Horticultural, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Physical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, and Mining Engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Post graduate studies are also provided, leading to a master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty number nearly fifty professors and instructors.

County appointees receive free tuition, room rent in the dormitories, fuel and light, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses. The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern.

Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the College to supply. The matriculation for the last year was, including Summer school, 815.

Specialists with the necessary number of assistants have charge of each department of natural science. Summer schools are provided for pedagogy, engineering, instruction in science and in arts. The State College of Kentucky, though bearing hitherto the title of "college," is the only institution in the Commonwealth doing, in any proper sense, university work.

The completion of the College home for young women provides facilities for good board and lodging. It is equipped with all modern conveniences, including bath rooms and room for physical culture. It is heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

An opportunity is thus afforded to young women of obtaining a thorough education in classics, modern language, literature, science, mathematics, logic, metaphysics, history, and political economy.

No other institution in the State offers advantages for education of women at all comparable to those offered by the State College of Kentucky.

The Normal Department will be on a better footing than ever heretofore. Last year's largely increased attendance, with the unprecedented growth of the Summer Normal School, both indicate that an era of prosperity surpassing that of all previous years has opened for the Normal Department of the State College.

New York Life.

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 30th, 1906.

Mr. Walter F. Garnett, Agent,
New York Life Insurance Co.,

City.

Dear Sir:—
It gives me pleasure to acknowledge receipt of statement of optional settlement on 20-Payment Life Policy, No. 223,593, for $1,500.00, issued at age 35, with premium of $52.50, taken out with you Apr. 29, '86. After having been insured for 20 years, I am offered a paid up policy for $1,500 and a cash dividend of $406.88, or the total value may be withdrawn in cash—$1,215.88, (which is more than I have paid in in the 20 years) or a fully paid up policy payable at my death for $2,219.00.

The cash settlement of $1,215.88 is equal to Term Insurance at $12.87 per $1,000 and an investment of the balance of premiums with 5% per cent. compound interest for twenty years. This showing is certainly a creditable one for the New York Life, and I will be pleased to give you my application for $1,000 on the Ordinary Life plan.

Yours very truly,

C. E. WRIST.

A little figuring will show that there are 77 persons in the county selling soda water from fountains and "soft drinks" in bottles, and that they have paid $317 for the privilege. There have been 130 licenses issued, and 77 are for the above business. Only one has made application for auctioneer's license, while 4 real estate agents have applied. There are many things that will prove interesting if you will take the trouble to analyze a little.

ORDINANCE NO. 23

An ordinance prescribing a license for carrying on the business of peddling vegetables, etc., in the city of Hopkinsville, Ky.

Be it ordained by the Board of Council of the city of Hopkinsville, Ky:

Peddlers of vegetables, butter, eggs, poultry, fruit and other similar marketing, except such as grown or produced by or for them, shall pay a license tax of $10 per year, or for any fractional part of a year. Each person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall on conviction before the police court, be fined $5 for each offense. This ordinance to take effect and be in force on the first day of July next following its adoption, approval, and publication.

Adopted June 19, 1906.

HERBERT P. McMATH,
Clerk of the Board of Council of the City of Hopkinsville, Ky.

Approved June 28, 1906.

CHAS. M. MEACHAM,
Mayor of the City of Hopkinsville,
Kentucky.

To Christian County House keepers.

In my judgment LUSTERINE is the best SOAP ever made for all purposes. For housecleaning, for farm hands, mechanics, laborers, professional people; for ladies, children or any one else, it is an ideal SOAP. It will simply clean anything. Will instantly remove tobacco gum, machine grease or anything else of the kind from the hands, leaving the skin soft and clean. I am selling it rapidly to every class of people with same good reports from those who use it. I would urge everybody to get a cake of this SOAP and give it a trial. The price is only FIVE CENTS.

$1,000 CHECK
Found on Main Street by Mr. Albert White
Last

THURSDAY MORNING.

Made Payable to a Former Post Master Nearly Half Century Ago.

The rather loose manner of banks paying checks on presentation fifty years ago as compared with the system of today was revealed Thursday, when Mr. Albert White picked up a check for $1,000 on North Main street. The check reads as follows:

$1,000.
Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 1st, 1859.
Branch Bank of Kentucky, Hopkinsville,
Pay to John B. Gowan.....or bearer
One thousand.....Dollars
No..... William C. Gray.

Where could you find a man today who would think for a moment of handing a man his personal check for $1,000, or even $5, payable to "bearer." "Bearer" is almost unknown in bank transactions now. The smallest amounts are made payable to "order." An order check for $1,000, unless the cashier is acquainted with the transaction which gave existence to the check, when handed to the cashier of a bank today, is first turned over to find out whether the party waiting for the money has written his name. The old check referred to was paid without this endorsement. Cashiers are slow about paying checks of any denomination unless they are acquainted with the endorser. We have heard that fifty years ago when a "good" man as William C. Gray drew a check it was used sometimes by three or four people without being endorsed at all, and the last man merely handed it "over the counter," not "through the window," as today.

The only thing that shows that Mr. Gowan, or any one else ever got the old check cashed is the cutting of the canceling hammer or the four-cornered hook used by the bank of the day. That check today would have been made payable "to John B. Gowan, or order." Mr. Gowan would write his name on the back of it, if he drew the money himself. If he passed it to second hands, the second man would likewise endorse it, the third, and so on. But the last man would have to endorse it before he got the money. The great advantage of the system of today over the old is that the cashier can tell at any time before the check is called for, by whom the money has been obtained. After the delivery of the depositor's check, for which a receipt is taken, the depositor can tell by his own signature to whom he has paid his money, checks often stating for what purpose. Then if the depositor discovers that a forgery has been committed it is much easier to run the forger down.

A wag once said that banking of today is very much like the church fair of a few years back. "Its easy enough to get your money in a bank, but costs 'a heap o' trouble to get it out,' sometimes." In a large city cashiers will not cash a check for a stranger for any amount without someone going with him and identifying the person who presents the check. Well, that's all right, and the entire manipulation of checks is all right. It smacks too much, probably, of red-tapeism, but bank officials are wiser than those of fifty years ago, and the nimble-fingered forger, the expert check-raiser, the dishonest employer of the banks, as well as the "plunger" who has acted as president for a decade, have to all be garded against. The system today is about as perfect as it can ever be and yet the most expert cashier often has "the wool pulled over his eyes" and "gets left" for different amounts. All the time-locks, steel doors and electric alarms sometimes fail and the safe blower becomes master of the situation.

Mr. Jno. B. Gowan, to whom the check was made payable, is well remembered by many of our older citizens. At one time he was a dry goods merchant, a partner of W. E. Price, who did business where Anderson & Fowler now are, then he was Sheriff of the county for one or more terms, during one of which he had his pockets picked at a circus one night, losing $1,000; he was postmaster here in 1882, serving several years. He was the father-in-law of Judge Walter Evans, Louisville, and was long one of the most conspicuous men in the county in ante bellum days.

William C. Gray was the father of Josiah Gray, the father of Messrs. J. Y. and E. C. Gray, of this city. W. E. Gray's farm was on the Russellville road, and is now the property of Mr. Albert Kelly.
